Who: More than 1,200 period artisans, merchants and performers, including jousting knights, juggling jesters, willful wenches and ravishing rogues.

What: A rollicking romp through Elizabethan England, complete with 16th Century games, rides, arts, crafts, food, music and dance, recreating the summer day in 1574 when Queen Elizabeth visited the English hamlet of Bristol.

RenQuest

Bristol's live action fantasy-play, which debuted in July 2008, returns with a new chapter in its evolving story line. Summer 2010 marks the final chapter in The Bloodtharken Trilogy, a story tracing the ongoing struggle between the brave and noble Order of the Sun and the wild, chaotic Lunar Tribe, and the legacy of the Dragon Bloodtharken. Bristol's RenQuest brings the worldwide popularity of massively multiplayer online role-playing games, like World of Warcraft, into the live action dimension of the Renaissance fair, for the first time, and offers gamers the chance to test their role-playing prowess beyond the realm of their computer screens.
